It's Easy June Walking In Muse's English Oxfords

Shoe Value is what it is worth to you. We define value in terms of your satisfaction. The Shoe of greatest value in June is the one not too snug of fit and properly proportioned—that comfortably encases the foot and gives it a flat setting with a good arch support.

This is the true English last—with all good style considered in the shaping of the same.

An additional June suggestion is that a soft tan leather of agreeable summer shade is also cool; and needless to say white canvas and Palm Beach Shoes belong in this timely June "foot note."

PHOTOGRAPHERS GATHER IN ATLANTA

One of Largest and Most Interesting Conventions in Atlanta's History Opens at the Auditorium.

At last the poor old family album has come into its own! By the token of the exhibit of the Photographers' Association of America at the Auditorium-Armory, it is no longer a mere promoter of matrimony, a shelter for clasped hands and the target of ribald jesters. It has taken a new lease on life and is something really to be looked at.

The old tintype of father in the bosom of the family is a thing of historic interest only. The square-shouldered picture of Aunt Jane is supplanted by a real work of art. Little brother Willie no longer appears to pose as a mummified Ramses II, Jr., but really lives. The picture of Big Sister no longer suggests to her sweetheart the image of a wooden Indian, but her face is full of wonderful shadows and lights, and she is in the act of doing something—playing the piano, gazing playfully through the window, or, maybe, if nature has been good to her, she is giving a charming imitation of a wood-nymph!

The Photographers' Association of America held its first session of the thirty-fourth annual convention in Tenth hall Monday afternoon. Many W. T. of Raleigh, N. C., president—and incidentally, first president from the south—of the association, presided. The visitors, of whom there will be some 1,500 in the city on Tuesday, were warmly welcomed by Governor John M. Slaton and Mayor James G. Woodward.

President Ben Frazier of Marion, Ind., responded to these welcomes. The session of the afternoon was taken up in the reading of communications, the appointment of committees and general routine business and "shop talk."

At the first session of the association to arrive in Atlanta was E. R. Doty, of Battle Creek, Mich., and the first man to greet him was Harry Goodhart, of Atlanta, which was an event of some significance.

At the last convention when Harry Goodhart was evening blood to bring the photographers here this year, and was making none too much progress. Mr. Doty, who was equally as desirous that the convention should go to Battle Creek, arose and said many things about Atlanta which Harry Goodhart had not said, including remarks on the distance to the Auditorium, the terrific mud that would be encountered on the way and a mysterious objectionable negro section through which visitors would have to pass. This line of talk immediately got Harry's dander up, and, figuratively, he pulled off his coat and waded in. He brought home the bacon, thereby bringing down upon his pate the wrath and indignation of the gentleman from Battle Creek.

Seated beside the governor on the platform Monday afternoon was a lovely old gentleman, with long flowing white hair and whiskers. He is no other than "Papa" Cramer, of St. Louis, and the pet of all the members of the association. He has not missed a single national convention in the thirty-four years during which the association has been holding conventions.

Defending Raleigh. And they do say that President T. Y. of Raleigh, has brought along a picture of Fayetteville street, of his home town, just to prove, Dame Rumor to the contrary, that grass positively does not grow between the pavilion and the lobby.

The lobby and Auditorium proper are filled with some half a hundred attractive booths containing the exhibits of the photographers and materials of the leading photographers and manufacturers of photographers' supplies. The pictures shown are the most beautiful and artistic that have ever been seen in Atlanta, and their number is bewilderingly great.

The exhibit will be open to the public on next Friday.

As one enters the lobby he is startled by an enormous panoramic view of the skyline of Atlanta. The picture is 16 feet long and 16 inches deep. It was made by Browning, formerly of Macon, not making commercial views in Atlanta.

This picture has been presented by the Anaco company, for whom it was made, to the Ad Men's Club of Atlanta to take with them.

The rest of the lobby is occupied by the enormous exhibit of the Cyko people. Two pictures which are being greatly admired are one of Mrs. John M. Slaton, made by Harry Ribbarg, of Atlanta, and another of Mrs. Walter Stiles, made by the Gelster studio, of New York.

The beautiful group picture, entitled "Maiden," made by Melvin Stiles of Chicago, which won the first prize in Atlanta two years ago, is on exhibit again.

An interesting picture in the lobby illustrates Shakespeare's "Seven Ages of Man." This picture was made by Delinger & Adams, of Birmingham, N. Y.

Some of the Pictures. In the Auditorium one is amazed at the number and the beauty of the pictures to be seen. There are pictures of beautiful women, finished as softly as an etching, art poses of wood nymphs, poses of characters from Dickens, remarkable action pictures of surfing along the manner of the South Sea Islanders, pictures of children that are as real as life-pictures, pictures, world without end! Pictures as soft as twilight! Pictures of young men and women as brilliant as the dreams of youth, and pictures of aged men as mellow as old age itself!

Then there are all sorts of exhibits of cameras and supplies. One booth is a camera for commercial work. It sits upon a tripod and is as big as a camera for 50 inches expansion. In the same booth is another camera hardly as big as a man's head, but it will take an action picture in a crowd more than a man can see at all.

An interesting exhibit in the auditorium is that of the Southern Photo Material company, of Atlanta. This exhibit is a collection of pictures taken by the company's photographers, showing the results of their work in the field of photography.

Monday's activities of the photographers wound up with a dance at the Atlanta Hotel Monday night. Tuesday's program is as follows:

JUNE MONEY SHEET PASSED BY COUNCIL

$27,000 Additional Is Provided to Meet the Deficit Caused by Tax Revenues Falling Short.

The June apportionment, carrying an additional $27,000 to meet the deficit caused by tax revenue falling short of anticipated increase, was approved by Council yesterday afternoon after considerable delay. Only one change was made. Instead of taking $2,000 from West Mitchell street, council adopted Councilman Wardlaw's amendment and took $1,000 from the fund for widening the Peachtree "bottle neck," leaving $1,000 remaining to the credit of the Mitchell street improvement fund.

Councilman Dallas strongly fought for an amendment to have the $500 and $1,000 from the sewerage fund, and he also attempted to swing certain funds in order to get more money for the city's sewerage fund. His amendment was voted down.

The $27,000 deficit in the sheet was caused by the fact that the sewerage fund in January and was taken from the credit of the sewerage fund. The sewerage fund was taken from the credit of the sewerage fund.

COUNCIL'S ACTION RAPIDLY BY MAYOR

Calls Condemnation Amendment, Passed Over His Veto, Vicious Piece of Legislation Against People.

"I regard this amendment as the most vicious piece of legislation against the people that has ever been presented to me, and despite the fact that council has seen fit to adopt it over my veto, I am going before the committee of the legislature and ask for its defeat. It is high-handed business giving council the authority to condemn streets, sidewalks, sewers or anything else, and not allowing the people a voice."

When Mayor G. Woodward voiced his sentiments in no uncertain terms when he was informed, late Monday afternoon, that council had passed over his veto the resolution urging a charter amendment to section 23 of the charter.

The amendment gives the mayor and general council the authority to condemn any piece of work, sewers, sidewalks, pavements, gutters, without regard to the wishes of the property owners or tenants of property. The measure was adopted some weeks ago by council, but Mayor Woodward sent it back with his veto. Council readopted the amendment with some changes and modifications, but the intent was always to take away from the people the right to condemn property.

Mayor Woodward said the amendment would work in favor of contractors and against property owners. He believes that the city should not condemn streets or other improvements except by property owners' petition. Mayor Woodward sent this message to council:

I consider this intended amendment too harsh as far as the interest of the people is concerned. It is a measure that takes the privileges of petition for improvements of the city out of the hands of the people and puts it in the hands of the council. I feel satisfied that the amendment is a measure that will be passed by the council, but I feel that it is a measure that will be passed by the council.
